

CLEAR OPERATOR OF A NEGLIGENCE CHARGE AT INQUEST

Thomas Sherwood, Phila., Released from Bail in The Death of Donald Beam

PARKLAND ACCIDENT

Coroner J. A. Rigby Conducts Inquest in Municipal Building Here

Exonerated of any criminal negligence, Thomas Sherwood, 2512 West Seltzer street, Philadelphia, last night was ordered released from bail on the charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Donald Beam, 10, 4217 Paul street, Philadelphia. Beam was struck by Sherwood's car at about 5.15 p. m., November 30th, on the Lincoln Highway, near Parkland.

An inquisition into the death of Beam was conducted in the municipal building here by J. Alfred Rigby, Bucks County coroner. The coroner's jury consisted of Ralph Hatcliffe, foreman; Donald Moyer, George Bruden, Edward Dougherty, John Johnson and Irvin Scheffey.

Beam died of a possible fractured skull and a crushed chest. He died at the scene of the accident, which occurred about 50 feet west of South Langhorne borough line.

Private Allen, Penna. State Police, Langhorne, was the first witness. Trooper Allen told of his investigation of the accident. He stated that Sherwood told him that he was driving east on Route 1, and that after the accident that he had stopped his car within 20 or 25 feet after applying his brakes. The witness testified that Sherwood had stated that the boy was thrown to the left and forward and that another car passed the Sherwood car, and ran over the body of the boy. The lad had run from the north side of the highway to the south side, and was struck by the left front of the Sherwood car. The left headlight rim was broken but not the glass.

The witness to follow Trooper Allen was Charles Martin, Emile road, Newportville, taxi driver. Martin said that he saw the accident, heard Sherwood apply his brakes, saw the body of the boy roll and saw the other car, the driver of which has never been learned, knock the body back towards the other side. Martin got out of his car and called an ambulance and state police. The witness said he thinks the driver of the other car applied his brakes for just a minute and then continued on.

Officers who will again serve throughout the year are as follows: President, Oswin M. Keelen; vice president, William Bishop; secretary, Willard Meyers; assistant secretary, Joseph Haem; financial secretary, Austin Crouthamel; treasurer, Norman Fox; trustee for three years, Howard Miller; chief, Lloyd Y. Edward Saeder has purchased the three-family dwelling house from Mrs. Albert Stover at Kintnersville. This property is known as the "long house," and was built many years ago by the Treichler family who operated a saw and grist mill property. The last transfer of this piece of real estate was from James Williams to Albert Stover in 1869.

Mr. Saeder has recently acquired four tracts, and is making extensive repairs to the mill property, which is being converted into a modern pottery.

A building is being constructed on the foundations of the old saw mill, and a reservoir will be located in the meadow at the rear of the mill.

Mr. Saeder expects to restore the water power, which has been out of order since the dam was washed away by a flood several years ago.

REPLY TO REUTHER

When Walter P. Reuther, President of the United Auto Workers, CIO, came to Bucks county last Sunday, one of the things he said was that critics of his "raise wages-freeze prices" program have been calling him names instead of trying seriously to explain what is wrong with his program.

As for calling him names, this newspaper has no such intention. He is a good looking young man with red hair and a pleasant smile, a well trained public speaker with a nimble tongue and a knack of getting over weak spots in his argument by telling funny (if rather bitter) anecdotes. Presumably he is sincere in what he says—he certainly manages to give that impression.

But a man can be wholly sincere, and still be as wrong as a rusty weather-vane.

And Mr. Reuther is just as wrong in his size-up and recommendations for the American people as it is possible for a man to be.

Mr. Reuther's argument starts with the proposition that a new depression is inevitable unless we do something about it. He has a so-called "economics survey" to back up this prediction. But this survey, the Nathan report, is not a study in economics in any sense of the words; rather, it is a collection of doubtful statistics gathered to prove a theory. Not a single figure, conclusion or prediction in it is generally agreed to, either by accepted economists, by the reports of the U. S. Government, or by similar surveys of other labor unions.

Those who are interested in factual and detailed reviews of the various points made in the Nathan report can find them in the analyses by such well-known commentators as Dorothy Thompson and Paul Mallon—to name only two out of many.

But such picking-to-pieces, in addition to being boresome, is beside the point.

Take the matter of whether a depression is coming or not. This isn't something to be predicted on the basis of figures, any more than an earthquake can be predicted. The two have certain similarities. Just as a quake is the result of long accumulated maladjustments inside the earth's crust, so a depression is the result of stresses accumulated in a nation's economic structure.

What is it that is going to "pull the trigger" and let off an earthquake, and how serious is it going to be? No one can even guess. Scientists can tell that there will be more quakes at one place than another; more in California, for example, than in Bucks County. But the chance factor of how soon they may be expected defies predictions.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

With the next Presidential election nearly two years away, two of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination stirred Washington with formal announcements. Senator Vandenberg said he intended to devote himself to his Senatorial duties and would not seek the nomination. Former Governor Staeger said he "to move our Republican party along the path of true liberalism," especially in labor legislation.

Meanwhile, the man in the White House whom the Republicans would like to replace was reported to have indicated his intention to ask for amendments to the Wagner Act.

The President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, answering CIO President Murray's plea for "peaceful settlement" of union demands, said the CIO wage program was an economic mirage.

The House Military Affairs Committee recommended the organization of an intelligence system for continuous military espionage abroad.

Bernard M. Baruch asked the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations to include the United States plan, including the proposal to abolish the veto in pun-

SCHOOL CAFETERIA BEING IMPROVED

Larger Stove is Placed In The Cafeteria of Morrisville Schools

SELL MEAL TICKETS

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 18—The school lunch program which was started in the public schools last year is being continued. A larger stove has been purchased and the cafeteria kitchen has been improved and made more efficient.

The program is not designed to show a profit at the end of the year. The school directors wish that the cafeteria become as self-sufficient as possible. If there is any money left over, it is used to improve the cafeteria and to make the surroundings as pleasant a place as possible for the pupils.

Any pupil of the schools may use the school cafeteria whether he purchases a lunch ticket or not. Last year the price of a weekly lunch ticket was one dollar. For this the pupil received five lunches which included milk, bread and jelly, a hot lunch which consisted of two vegetables and meat. Jelly had to be used because butter at that time was non-existent. This type of meal under the government "Food for Schools Program" is a Type A meal.

If a pupil missed a lunch due to absence from school or had some other very good reason why he should miss it, the price of that meal was refunded when he purchased his next ticket, but if he was in school and did not come for his lunch through some reason of his own he was charged for the meal.

The cost of the weekly lunch ticket has been raised to $1.25. This is due to the increase in the cost of foods. Last year the price of the homogenized milk which was used was three and one-half cents for a half-pint bottle. This year the cost of the same type milk to the school has risen to five and one-half cents for the same size bottle or 57¢. The cost of other foods has gone up, but the rise of these was not quite as spectacular as the rise in milk.

John Gontar is the cafeteria manager. Mrs. Sarah Carter, the home economics teacher, plans the meals and Mrs. Helen Altschuler cooks the meals and takes care of the cafeteria.

It is the desire of the school directors, the school officials and cafeteria managements that as many pupils as possible take advantage of this opportunity to get a good well-balanced nourishing meal at the school at noon.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR TWO THUGS IN ALLEGED ROBBERY

Mrs. George Kappes, 33, of Southampton, Says She Was Beaten, Robbed

WHILE CHILD SLEPT

Bandits Said To Have Made Off With $59 From A Coffee Urn

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 18—Police are still searching for two thugs who allegedly entered a residence here Monday at 10.45 p. m., and beat and robbed a 33-year-old woman as her three-year-old child slept in a second floor bedroom.

The victim, Mrs. Grace Kappes, informed state police of Langhorne barracks, and Southampton township police officers, that two bandits entered her home, punched and kicked her until she told them where $59 was hidden in a coffee urn, and made off in an automobile.

Mrs. Kappes states that she was awaiting the return of her husband, George, from his job at a Philadelphia printing plant. The Kappes home is on Bristol Road near Second street pike, it being converted into a house from a grist mill.

The victim further informed police that the two men forced open the front door and burst into the living room. One, she claims, pointed a revolver at her and demanded where the family cash was kept. Refusing to tell, she says they then proceeded to punch her face and beat her about the legs. Mrs. Kappes then directed them to a coffee urn, in the dining room she says, the men taking the money and fleeing out the 100-yard driveway to Bristol Road.

Mrs. Kappes notified Police Chief Clarence Heppes, of Southampton. The urn is being examined for fingerprints. A physician treated Mrs. Kappes.

Police were informed that the men were unmasked. Mrs. Kappes stated she was seated in the living room, reading, when she heard an automobile enter the driveway. It then being turned around, and the car leaving. Shortly after, she states, the front door, which was locked, was pushed open by force, the lock being strained by the weight of the two men who burst in, one pointing a pistol at her. The beating followed. Mrs. Kappes describes the two as being about 18 to 20 years of age.

SAYS HE HEARD POTATO PICKER SAY HE HAD SHOT MAN

William H. Henry, Woodside, Testifies in Fallow Murder Case

OTHERS ARE HEARD

Dr. Fred J. Phillips, Quakertown, Tells of Autopsy He Performed on Body

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 18—A Woodside farmer yesterday testified that he heard one of his Negro potato pickers admit that he had shot another Negro worker on August 17th, this year, and that he saw a shotgun used in the killing between two mattresses in the accused slayer's bedroom in a bunk house on his farm.

This took place at the second day of the trial of Walter ("Big Walt") Fallow. Charged in the Bucks county courts with the murder of George "Tex" Smith, 58-year-old fellow potato picker. The case is being tried before Judge Hiram H. Keller and a jury of nine men and three women.

Smith was murdered in the kitchen of the bunk house on the Samuel Henry farm in Lower Makefield Township. Police allege the killing followed an argument during a card game.

The first witness, Ernest Hearn, of Marrina, Florida, who lived in the bunk house where the murder took place, testified for the Commonwealth that he heard shots fired. Hearn also testified that he saw the defendant Fallow seated on his bed in his own room after the shooting. The witness said that previous to the shooting he saw the victim and Fallow playing cards in the kitchen of the Samuel Henry bunk house.

"I saw a man lying on the floor after the shooting," Hearn testified. "I knew the fellow on the floor as 'Tex'."

Under cross-examination, Hearn testified that he was "intoxicated the night of the shooting but was not drunk," that he and others had been in Newtown to buy some groceries and a pint of gin.

The Commonwealth objected to a defense question asked the witness, "why were you in jail in Florida?" Judge Keller sustained the objection.

"I wasn't intoxicated when I saw the man lying on the floor," Hearn said. "Then I went to bed."

The witness Hearn testified that he has been in the Bucks County prison since the shooting, held by the Commonwealth as a material witness.

William H. Henry, of Woodside, operator of the farm on which the shooting occurred, was the second Commonwealth witness. He testified that "Tex" Smith, the victim, came to his farm two weeks before the crime.

Henry said that he and State Trooper Keith Dane went to the bunk house about one a. m., August 17th, and found Smith's body lying across the doorway of the bunk-house kitchen.

"I saw Fallow in his room and I heard Trooper Dane ask Fallow who shot him, and Fallow replied, 'I shot him,'" Henry testified.

"I heard the trooper question Fallow about the gun, and the gun, a shotgun, was found in Fallow's bedroom between two mattresses."

Under cross-examination, Henry testified that he saw a whisky bottle near the victim's hand, but that he could not say whether the bottle was in his hand or not.

William B. Nichols, Bristol photographer, identified Commonwealth photographs that were taken at the scene.

Roscoe Horner, Langhorne mortician, testified that he removed the body of the victim.

Dr. Fred J. Phillips, of Quakertown, connected with the Dr. Tice Clinic, testified that he performed an autopsy on the body of a man identified as the victim, at Horner's funeral home in Langhorne at five a. m. on August 17th.

Dr. Phillips testified that the victim had a gunshot wound in his right chest and a hole in the rear of the body two inches in diameter and twenty inches below the left shoulder.

ANTARCTIC BOUND

The Navy's expedition to Antarctica, variously styled Operation High Jump and the Antarctic Developments Project 1947, is on its way. The 13 ships assigned to Admiral Byrd's expedition have weighed anchor and headed for the planned rendezvous at Scott Island.

Since Admiral Byrd's announcement some time ago there has been no further elaboration of the objectives of the expedition. Officially its job is to go on from the beginnings made on earlier visits. The mapping of the continent is to be carried forward and the explorers will seek more detailed and exact information concerning its mineral resources. It is no secret that Washington would like to know if uranium is to be found there. But the possibility that the United States will assert claim or possession to any part of that isolated land mass has been carefully soft-pedaled.

The wisdom of this policy is obvious. There is not much point in getting involved in an international controversy over the ownership of Antarctica unless the continent is worth the trouble. So the thing to do is first to ferret out the facts, as far as possible. Evidently the Navy intends to do just that and do it on a big scale. Otherwise it would not assign more than 4,000 men to this task. Meanwhile the expedition will provide training opportunities for crews of ships and planes and valuable knowledge of sea-air operations under the special conditions to be encountered. The experience thus gained should be useful in the Arctic, which has engaged the attention of American military strategists for obvious reasons. That consideration has not been emphasized though it has been mentioned, but no doubt it is an important one.

WITHIN TEN YEARS

Postwar progress in technology has been so swift that Prof. Milton Burton of the University of Notre Dame predicts that entire American cities will be enabled to operate on atomic power in the next ten years.

Such plants not only will provide light, heat and power for all the citizens, but by-product radiation also will be used to purify water supply, sterilize sanitation system waste and produce new products, says Professor Burton, former head of the radiation chemistry section of the atomic bomb project at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Industrial application of atomic radiation to the fuels of today, including oil, coal and natural gas, will bring forth from them a utilization which will make the present-day application of fire seem ineffective and obsolete, he predicts.

Professor Burton's predictions read like a Utopian dream, but they are based on solid fact. The world is emerging into the atomic age just as surely as it came into the electric age. But its further advance is conditional on the rather terrifying factor of whether civilization will permit itself to survive at all.

So with depressions. It is clear enough that the United States has accumulated financial stresses which, unless they are corrected, eventually will plunge us into bankruptcy and destitution. The correction of this basic instability lies in a field which Mr. Reuther does not touch—that of cutting down the government's extravagance, "balancing the budget," and retiring the national debt.

But aside from the fundamental trend, there is no immediate reason why this nation should have a depression. Demand, both in the U. S. and abroad, was never higher; our facilities for production are the best in history; money to pay for our output is widely held; we have an abundance of skilled labor.

We have the money, materials, manpower and markets for a ten-year period, at the very least, of unparalleled prosperity.

Why hasn't it started? Mr. Reuther knows, or ought to know, the answer to that question. It lies in the field of the labor movement. Labor groups such as the CIO have been too busy with social and economic experiments, too busy trying to get the upper hand over management, too busy with political deals with ambitious Democrats, to really go to work.

What's the use wasting time quibbling over whether the Nathan report figures are correct, or where they came from, or what they mean?

There are at least four fundamental matters which are wrong, any of which labor leaders such as Mr. Reuther can help correct any time they wish. They are: rivalry among labor groups to see which leader can "get the most" for his men; union leaders' dabbling with Communism and Communists; disregard by certain unions of the superior rights of the whole American people; unwillingness of various labor groups to live within the scope of the Constitution and the American plan of government.

Mr. Reuther complains that, according to his figures, the members of his union are averaging $3.50 a day, or 17.6 per cent, less take-home pay than a year ago. He seems to blame management for this, hints of vast "hidden" profits, and wants wages raised 23.5 cents an hour to bring wages and "buying power" back where he thinks they belong.

But if labor's take-home pay is less than it might be, where does the cause lie? In the wave of big and little strikes which have plagued the nation for the past eighteen months. All of them were destructive of production and destructive of earning power. They have spragged the wheels of reconversion. And most of them have proved nothing whatever, except that labor itself would be better off with some sort of a curb over the activities of its own bosses.

How did this wave of strikes get out of hand? For a simple but most illuminating reason. A year and a half ago, men like the late Sidney Hillman and former Secretary Wallace sold President Truman exactly the same bill of goods which Mr. Reuther now is advocating—that a depression was near at hand, that "buying power" had to be kept up, and that the way to do it was to raise wages but freeze prices.

That fantastic scheme put a monkey wrench in the wheels of industry, nearly broke the heart of the American people, and completely broke the back of the Democratic party. Whatever else the recent election did or didn't prove, it certainly proved that the public has "had enough" of that particular experiment.

Yet here it is back again, like an unwanted cat; and Mr. Reuther seems somewhat hurt and baffled to find that neither the public nor the commentators wish to take it seriously.

Some of those who attended Mr. Reuther's speeches have expressed disappointment over his "message." There is a very good reason for this. He chose to talk about the least interesting phase of the political issues before the nation, and especially before labor; and to devote his attention to a hair-brained scheme of talking the nation back into "controls and confusion."

What are the big issues he might have touched but didn't? One of them is Communism. Mr. Reuther has recently been right on the firing line in the biggest labor question of all—whether the labor movement is going to be run by Communists or by American working people. Yet he wholly ignored this dispute, which has blown labor itself wide open.

Another tremendously important question, so far as labor is concerned, is the internal politics of the CIO. Among the various reasons Mr. Reuther had for making his speaking tour was a personal motive of considerable urgency. Mr. Reuther, last March, "deposed" R. J. Thomas as President of UAW, after a ten-year leadership. There is no question that Mr. Thomas has been unhappy about his defeat. Reports are that he has quietly picked up control of all the UAW-CIO Committees, and is prepared to bounce Mr. Reuther out as soon as he has the chance.

Naturally enough, Mr. Reuther made no reference to his own insecure position as head of the UAW. But there can be very little doubt that the difficulties and uncertainties of his tenure in office strongly modify his opinions as to what the CIO ought to do in the future.

In this situation there is considerable food for thought. Just how do the officials of labor unions get elected? Is the labor movement "democratic" in the sense of choosing its own leaders and spokesmen—or does an autocracy in the upper crust of the unions fight it out among themselves? Does the working man who has to join and support the CIO to keep his job have any say whatever about who shall represent him, what they do with his money, or what kind of political deals they see fit to make with his vote?

Those are questions which the working people, in the long run, are going to have to answer for themselves.

Mrs. Pearl Graham, 13 Lincoln Highway, Parkland, witnessed the accident, and according to her Sherwood was not driving more than 25 or 30 miles per hour. "I saw an apparition run in front of the car," stated the witness. Then I heard a screeching of brakes," she said. "The accident was unavoidable." In answer to a question by the coroner, Mrs. Graham said that Beam had run from the north side of the highway to the south side.

The chum of Beam, Gilbert Worthington, 14 Phila., took the witness stand and told the jury that Beam ran across the highway to ask a woman when the bus was coming. He said that he saw his friend struck by the car and that he then crossed the highway. "I just stood there. I didn't know what to do," said the youngster. He said that he saw Beam struck by the first car, the body thrown and then saw the other car hit the body.

Sherwood, taking the witness stand in his own behalf, told the jury he saw a flash across his headlights. He said his car struck the boy and knocked him into the next lane. He said that he was driving about 35 or 40 miles per hour. He stated that he drives that highway every week. He said he stopped his car within 20 feet and that his car is in "wonderful condition." He testified that the boy's body was thrown about 12 feet.

A New Twist To Make Apple Pie Even Better

While the luscious fall apples are plentiful, the traditional favorite of American desserts, Apple Pie, is likely to be on the menu frequently. Perhaps you think that "just plain apple pie" is a dish you can't improve upon; but here's a new wrinkle that produces a pie even better than most apple pies! The change is a slight one, merely the addition of a little bran to the pastry for the pie crust. Why not try it once, and see if it doesn't make a hit with the man of the family?

Apple Pie with Bran Crust
 2 cups sifted flour
 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
 1/4 cup shredded bran
 2/3 cup lard
 3 to 6 tablespoons cold water
 Sift flour with salt. Roll bran and combine with flour. Cut lard into mixture until crumbs are coarse and granular. Add water, a small amount at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through flour mixture until dough just holds in a ball.
 Divide dough into two parts. Roll one-half on lightly floured cloth or board, to 1/4-inch thickness. Line pie pan, allowing 1/2 inch to hang over edge. Fill with apple mixture. Roll remaining pastry, making several dashes to allow escape of steam, and place over filling. Allow top crust to overlap lower crust 1/2 inch. Moisten lower edge to seal, and fold top crust under the lower. Crimp edges. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 35 minutes or until apples are done.

Filling

5 cups sliced apples
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 Combine all ingredients except butter. Fill pastry-lined pie pan and dot with butter.

Club Programs Center About The Yule Season

Activities among women's club of Bucks County this week are centered about the Yuletide season.

Yesterday afternoon members of Lingochock Garden Club met at the residence of Mrs. Anna Bucher, Pineville. At that time they made Christmas favors and exchanged small gifts.

Drama and music departments of the Perkase Women's Club arranged the program for the meeting in Fraternity Temple, Perkase, for this afternoon. "Christmas Around the World" will be presented, with Mrs. W. K. Gulick and Mrs. Walter Sullivan as hostesses.

A musical program appropriate to the season will be included tomorrow afternoon when Women's Club of Buckingham has a session at the home of Mrs. J. H. Blanchard. The musical numbers will be presented by Mrs. Robert L. Bucher and Mrs. Arthur C. Kinney.

LADY'S ARM WAS BENT UP DOUBLE LIKE A JACK-KNIFE

One lady recently stated that her arm used to become doubled up like a jack-knife. She couldn't move her arm up or down because her muscles were stiff with rheumatic pains and the joints of her elbow and shoulder were swollen. She said she was ashamed to leave her house because people would stare at her. Finally she got RHEU-AID and says she now can raise her arm above her head and the swelling left her elbow and shoulder. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this New Compound.

RHEU-AID contains Three Great Medicinal Ingredients which go right to the very source of rheumatic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHEU-AID. Sold by All Drug Stores here in Bristol. (Advertisement.)

BRISTOL HIGH WINS THIRD VICTORY BY BEATING BULLDOGS

Bunnies Swamp Morrisville

64 to 48

BRISTOL - NOW LEADS

Local Team Holds Undisputed Possession of First Place

Bristol High copped its third straight victory last night on the home floor, swamping the Morrisville High quintet, 64-48. By virtue of its win, the Bunnies took undisputed possession of first place in the Lower Bucks County circuit.

In handing the Bulldogs their first loss in three starts, the Bristol team was at its best as it shook the cords for 27 field goals and 10 out of nineteen fouls.

The game was a typical Bristol-Morrisville fracas with plenty of fouls being committed. Bristol had 19 free shots while Morrisville stepped up to the foul line 27 times and converted but 8.

"Dezzy" DeLise and Pindar again led Bristol in scoring but the passing of the other three regular players, Sottile, Burton, and Mama made the two forwards amass their totals as the passes could not have been much better. DeLise had 18 points and Pindar one more.

"Flash" Foti and Barber were best in scoring for Morrisville with 12 and 14 points, respectively.

The Bristol Junior Varsity lost its first game of the season when it was nosed out by the Morrisville Junior Varsity, 27-25, in a closely-fought contest.

Morrisville won the contest by dropping in five of their 13 foul tries while Bristol made but three out of nine tries. Both teams had 11 field goals with Stewart getting four for Bristol and Pugh the same number for the winners.

BENSALEM OWLS LOSE TO BUCKINGHAM TEAM

BUCKINGHAM, Dec. 18.—The Bensalem Owls were handed their first defeat of the season last night as Buckingham scored a 32-27 triumph in a Lower Bucks County League game.

"Mike" Dietrich and Davis were high for the Owls with six points each while Kniele and Worthington each scored five field goals for the winners.

The "Buckies" had a one-point lead at half-time but Bensalem forged ahead in the third period only to have the ultimate winners come back strong in the last session.

The Bensalem Junior Varsity trimmed the Buckingham Jayvees, 23-15, with Bristol scoring 13 points for the Cornwells institution.

5TH AND PROFY'S WILL BATTLE FOR 1ST PLACE POST

Meet Tonight on Rohm & Haas Floor; Bristol League Honors

FIRST GAME AT SEVEN

Passanante vs. K. of C.; Badenhausen to Play Rohm & Haas

The battle for first place in the Bristol Basketball League will take place tonight on the Rohm & Haas floor as the Fifth Ward Sporting Club battles the fast-going Profy team. In the other games scheduled, Passanante will meet the Knights of Columbus and Badenhausen plays Rohm & Haas. First game will begin at seven o'clock.

Fifth Ward and Profy's are both unbeaten and have rolled up big margins on all their opponents. Profy's have a high-scoring array of players in "Johnny" Slavin, "Joe" Roe, Ralph Cahill, Gus Carnvale, "Teddy" Sak, "Billy" Gallagher, and "Tom" Profy. The Sporting Club has a fast young team and a long list of capable substitutes. It is this factor that will make the game interesting as Profy's is lacking in substitutes.

The Rohm & Haas five will be seeking its third straight win while the Badenhausen, Passanante, and K. of C. teams are seeking their first victory.
